SUNDAY FEBRUARY 24

Again the curtain has been rung down on Silver legislation and another session of Congress will close without action on the most important question that has ever confronted the American people. Of course after the Silver bill was buried, it behooved the representatives of both political parties to rise and make loud declarations of fealty to the dead, while they lay the blame of killing on the other party.

Several leading representatives of the two old parties spoke on the question. One side was positive that the Democrats had promised the country monometallism and had failed to keep its promise. Other members were equally certain that the Republican party had promised the country a double money standard and had failed to do so. This is the same old story told in every session of Congress, the old quarrel between the pot and the kettle, calling each other black.

Meanwhile the President of the United States makes a bond issue entirely in the interest of his banking friends in New York and the Old World and in a few days these good people clean up a nice little stake of eleven millions. This enormous commission on the financial scheme of the President, mostly goes into the coffers of foreign bankers.

There is now a movement on foot to Lexow the President and investigate the inside of this miserable job, but there is no danger to Cleveland. The foreign gold that helped him where he is, is still potent enough to prevent daything detrimental to him in the investigation.

Here is a man who during two administrations has been playing iato the hands of foreign syndicates and making the people or his own country grovel in depths of misery and want. Benedict Arnold was not one tenth the traitor to his country that Cleveland is now. Arnold paid the penalty of his crime. Cleveland is extolled as a great financier, and if he has ever been found in the morning hanging to a lamp post in front of the White House, we have never heard of it.

THE LAW-MAKERS WORK.

A courthouse wit says that a reference to the legislative proceedings show that both houses are wagging along the same old way: Assembly bill No. 1001, by Mr. Jones, is placed on its final passage; senate concurrent resolution No. 999, by Mr. Robinson, is laid on the table, and after much expenditure of wind an adjournment is taken until next day. Thus it goes on from day to day, while the poor devil of a taxpayer is wondering where he is going to procure anything to lay on his table.—Exchange.

The above does the Legislature a grave injuscice Outsiders rarely know the real amount of work pertormed by a Legislature.

The labors of that body, while in session, is about one fifth of what they really do. The real hard work is in the committee room, where men often work after midnight to investigate the wants of bills, detect the jobs in them and by comparing them with other acts, decide how much they really enact or repeal or whether or not they will stand the crucial test of constitutionality. It takes brains and time and midnight oil to do these things and the men who do this work as a rule get no credit for it from their constituents, but are merely mentioned as follows. "There's A at Carson. Got a soft thing; drawing $8 a day answering the roll call."

The real hard work of the day does not begin until after the regular session has adjourned.

Query of a Looker On.

EDITOR APPEAL:-Many people are asking, is the present session of the Legislature to be a repetition of two years ago? It is well known that if the General Appropriation bill had been introduced and passed within the first thirty or thirty-five days of the 16th Session, no extension would have been necessary. It is also known that it was during the last ten days that the most expensive, and in many cases, unnecessary measures were adopted. Is this to be repeated, by holding the Appropriation bill back until an extension of the fifty day session will be inevitable? People are asking who are responsible,

A LOOKER ON.

The news will be published as usual tomorrow; not that we are not patriotically inclined, but we believe in giving our patrons the worth of their money,-Friday's News.

The above, when taken in connection with the fact that the News sent word to its Carson contemporaries that it would not publish is somewhat laughable. The News has played this trick several times before and we all
